WILD CALLED, JIM STAYED

Gander Almost Tempted Away by Wild Geese Flying Overhead.

MATE'S LOVE CALL HELD HIM

Very Pretty Little Romance From the Poultry Run of a New Jersey Farm.

Essex Falls, N.J., May 16.—"Honk! Honk! Honk!" The cry came faint, yet clear, from the sky, where, almost out of sight, a flock of wild geese were speeding in wedge-shaped formation to their breeding grounds in Canada.

It stirred an almost forgotten chord in Jim, the wild gander that Charles Van Dyne has made the pet of his farm in Brookside avenue ever since he brought him down four years ago with a shot that broke the tip of his wing. Jim raised his head and unconsciously stretched his wings to try their strength.

Faint and clear a second time the cry came from the sky, and there was something in it that made Jim forget all the years of ease and plenty and the quiet little grey goose that has been his mate, and he thrilled only to the thought of the great, long flight to the distant north.

As the wild geese passed on overhead their call came to him again with an irresistible appeal, and with a loud "Honk, Honk!" in answer, Jim raised himself into the air and started after them.

Jenny, the little grey goose, caught the wild note in her mate's cry, and she sat brooding over the setting of thirteen eggs, and it brought her fluttering into the yard just as Jim was well clear of the ground.

The call of the wild was something beyond her comprehension, but she realized her mate was leaving her, and she gave the love call, plaintive, soft and low. It reached Jim just as he was heading north in pursuit of the others, and before he knew it he had swerved in his flight.

A second time Jenny called, and Jim swung back and made a full circuit of the barn. Twice he flew around in an uneasy sweep, filled with that strange longing to be gone, yet held by the love notes that came to him from below. But now the wild geese were far on their way and their cry had died down almost to nothing, while Jenny and her brooding nest seemed near once more.

Jim dropped to the ground by Jenny's side and, pausing to whisper a word in her ear, went into the barn and took his place on the eggs while Mrs. Jenny enjoyed her turn in the meadows.

Aged 92; a Great Walker

Chicago, May 17.—Benjamin A. Jent, 3020 Warren avenue, who celebrated his ninety-second birthday anniversary last January, is looking for a long distance walker to engage in a walking match with him from Garfield park to the city hall, a distance he has covered on an average of once a week for twenty years.

DROUGHT AND WHEAT CROP

Commission of Saskatchewan Boards of Trade is Optimistic.

"The three prairie provinces of Canada can go for three weeks without a drop of rain and still produce a bumper crop of wheat; the largest they have yet produced."

This is the prediction of F. MacF. Scanders, commissioner of the Saskatchewan board of trade, who has just completed a 500 mile automobile tour of the province. It was made to the Winnipeg Telegram on Saturday last.

"The pessimistic reports that have appeared in Canadian papers for the past few weeks are absolutely wrong as a scientific study of the crop will prove," said Mr. Scanders. "Out of twelve moisture tests I have made during the past week I have found moisture within one and three quarters of an inch from the surface; and further, I have found that the soil has been better cultivated this year than it ever was before. Conservation of the soil is the main thing to be considered in growing wheat, an ditis has been done as never before through the use of the soil pacer, a farm machine that has come into use only within the past few years. The soil is packed and then a light turn is raised with a harrow, preventing the ground cracking and allow moisture from the frost to escape."

"What a lucky has a greater root growth than ever before in the history of the country, and there is no farmer who would not rather see the wheat growing under ground at this time of year than above ground. It means that a big sound kernel will be found in the stock during harvesting time, instead of the small weak kernel we had in 1908."

"Believe me, we have a crop ahead of us such as we never had before."

The Bill at the Empire

Gahan and Spence put on the best act at the Empire this week. They are dancers who are unusually good for this part of the country and who would make a hit in any company. The rest of the bill is well up to the average and was well received by the audience last night. Charles Nichols and Marie Croix put on a good sketch called "An Interrupted Rehearsal" in which Nichols establishes himself as a favorite with a good line of slang talk, Mueller and Mueller sang well and had to come back for an encore before the audience was satisfied. Miss Georgia Gardner and company presented a farce called "Too Many Darlings." It was very funny in spots and just as weak in other spots, including the ending. The Four Nightingales, gymnasts, opened their act with some living pictures and then did some remarkable strong-man performances. Miss Edith Wall's song, "Any Old Time At All" seemed to be a favorite with the audience, who joined lustily in the chorus. The Empirescope showed some amusing pictures.

MAKE SMALL BANK NOTES

Size of United States Paper Currency May Be Reduced.

BIG SAYING TO THE GOVERNMENT

Believed Also That the Smaller Sized Notes Would be Easier to Handle.

Washington, D. C., May 17.—A reduction in the size of paper money of the United States will be made if Secretary of the Treasury McVeagh accepts recommendations that will be made to him within a few weeks by a committee of treasury officials appointed to investigate this and other proposed reforms.

The object of the proposed change is to supply the country with a size of currency more convenient for handling and to save the government $50,000 a year in paper and engraving.

The new sized banknotes to be recommended is about one-fourth as large as the notes now in circulation. The present notes are of a size that has been the standard for generations.

Committee Studies Subject

The idea that a smaller size might be more convenient and at the same time save a lot of money to the general government occurred to Secretary McVeagh and Assistant Secretary Norton soon after they assumed charge of the treasury department. A committee was appointed at once to study the proposition and report conclusions.

An experiment in the advantages of the change has been made in the Philippine island currency, which is engraved at the treasury. The Philippine bank note is about one-fourth the size of the American bank note, and is extremely attractive in appearance. It is printed also on a thinner and finer grade of paper, and altogether is pronounced more convenient than the paper money of any nation.

Will Save U. S. Much Money
On account of the smaller size, five instead of four notes can be engraved on a page of currency note paper, and this, in addition to the economy of paper, means a tremendous saving.

A good deal of objection to the proposed change has been heard from banks, but some of the objectors, when shown the Philippine notes, have admitted their conversion to the proposition.

FACTORY MAY BE LOCATED HERE

Manager of Van Slyk Plow Company Admits an Open Mind on the Question of Location.

Dr. J. W. Rowntree of the Van Slyk Plow Company of Red Deer, manufacturers of the Van Slyk breaking plow, is in the city making arrangements for a demonstration of his plow which he expects to give next Saturday at 2 o'clock at the house of Mr. Kennedy and Alberta Avenue. It is said that while here Dr. Rowntree is looking into the question of factory sites with an idea of some day moving his factory here. The doctor himself would not say that he expected to come to Edmonton, but admitted that he still had an open mind on the question of location. The Mayor and the Board of Trade are showing him the advantages of Edmonton and it is under their auspices that he is to make the demonstration of his plow next Saturday.

Patents have been secured for the plow in practically every country in the world so that if the factory were located here it would mean that the name of Edmonton would be carried to all parts of the earth. The advantages claimed for the plow are that it will work equally well in prairie, bush or timothy soil; that the furrows do not turn back or sink; that the draught of the plow is fully one third less than other makes; that it secures and gumbos land; and that it is built of solid steel and is guaranteed.

Tips in English Style

Chicago, May 17.—More than $100 was given to employees of the Blackstone hotel by Charles G. Gates just before leaving with his wife for New York, where they will join his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gates.

In a tour of the world, beginning on May 21, Mr. Gates used the English method of tipping by lining employees in a row in the corridor of the floor where his apartments were, and beginning with the butler, distributed the money according to the official position of the employee.

Like a Strathcona Car

"Here, you," said the conductor, angrily, "you rang up a fare. Do that again and I'll put you off."

The small man standing in the middle of the crowded car promptly rang up another fare. Thereupon the conductor projected him through the crowd and to the edge of the platform.

"Thanks," said the little man. "I did not see any other way to get out here's your dime."—Success Magazine.

ESKIMOS TOOK OPENER FROM HUSKIES; WAS A MAGNIFICENT 15 INNINGS STRUGGLE

Dellar and Geehan Both Performed in Major League Style—Olsen was the Stellar Light in the Field with Other Eskimos Close Behind—Dellar had Triple and Double—Hon. C. W. Cross and Mayor Lee also Played—Attendance was 1,500—Carney has Good Team but so has Deacon—Game To-Day at 6 p.m.

Monday, May 16th will go down in Edmonton history on the same page as such famous dates as those of the Inauguration of the Province of Alberta, and the arrival of the first C. N. R. train into the city. True, champagne was not flowing like water, as on those auspicious occasions, but more enthusiasm was undoubtedly yesterday at Diamond park, Edmonton, than would be produced by all the fizzy water factories of France working overtime.

For did not Bill Carney, the redoubtable warrior, arrive in town with thirteen Huskies in tow, and with the determination of putting it all over Edmonton? And did not Deacon White, our nearest neighbor, lead his Eskimos, hand defeat to the invaders, on a silver salver. They did.

It was a wonderful day. In the first place, Old Sol shone brightly, and the automobile parade made one of the main thoroughfares. Led by the band in an auto-bus, cars followed, carrying the players of both teams, the city officials, and numerous prominent citizens. Arrived at the park, the Calgary players took possession of the diamond, while the band played sweet music. But the music was no sweeter to the ears of Secretary Dewar and the other officials, than the battle of the fans, as they passed through the gate. And the faithful sure did turn out in goodly numbers to get Deacon's Pets off to a good start. Fifteen hundred paid admissions were taken in at the gate, and bleachers and grand stands were filled to their capacity. The fair sex was very much in evidence, and rooted for the home team with a fervor that was not to be denied. Both teams made good with the crowd by their snappy work-outs, and at 4 o'clock, precisely the formal opening took place.

Battery, Cross and Lee

Amid great applause, that famous battery, Hon. C. W. Cross and Mayor Lee walked nonchalantly onto the field. The mayor donned the big mitt and took his stand behind the plate, while the attorney-general prepared to deliver a curve that would dazzle the eyes of Dugging. Not a sound was heard. Taking careful aim and also observing the mayor's signal for a live one, Mr. Cross uncoiled one of those spit-balls used with great success in the Hook and Eye League, and Dugan tied himself up in knots trying to connect. We must also state that it was equally puzzling to Catcher Lee.

Then Umpire Longnecker called "Play Ball," and the barrier went up. Deacon trotted out Hon. P. J. Dellar, a man of high reputation, while Calgary pinned their hopes on Geehan, who has been stealing Medicine Hat and Lethbridge on their heads.

How Runs Were Made

Edmonton broke into the run column in the very first innings, on hits by Olsen and Lussi. This put them in good with the crowd and from the very drop of the bat, the Eskimos had the whole crowd gasping for breath. That is with the exception of fifteen loyal Calgary supporters. The home-sters grabbed another counter in the fourth on Lussi's second hit, a stolen base, a passed ball, and Stanley's error. Dellar got a triple in the fifth but died on third. Calgary tied the score in the seventh when two runs crossed the pan on Smith's triple, interspersed with two errors, a sacrifice fly, a stolen base, and a charity. The ninth innings ended with the tie still broken, both pitchers performing like big leaguers, and being backed up in faultless manner by the fielders. Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth, and Fourteenth innings passed by with wary a sign of a run and the fans forgetting that there was such a thing as dinner. After blanketing the Huskies in the first of the fifteenth, Hon. Dellar strode to the pan, with a look as much as to say: "This has gone far enough." Bang! and one of Geehan's benders was straightened out. When the dust settled, our peerless fencer was ennobled on second, and the fans were candidates for a red nose. Then forced Dellar at third, and the temperature dropped perceptibly. But Olsen got on first on Stanley's error, and Geehan weakened for the first time, issued two passes in concussion, and saw victory snatched from his hands. The crowd overhauled the grounds and congratulated the Eskimos in whispers; voices had been lost long ago.

Features of the Game

The work of the two pitchers, Dellar and Geehan, could not have been improved upon. Both performed in phenomenal manner, and were never overthrown in a tough situation. The strain of the fifteen innings must have been terrible, but they stuck to their guns to the last and deserve all the medals that are being handed out.

Dellar, without doubt, gave the finest exhibition of twisting ever seen in Edmonton, and the way his teammates lacked him up, was far from slow. As for the fielding, one Ole Olsen, centre fielder of the locals, won a tablet in the Hall of Fame. He had nine putouts of which at least seven were hard chances. Particulars will be found elsewhere of some of his highest efforts. The Eskimo infield was full of ginger, and Jack Brennan made up for his lack of hits by gobbling up every thing within a mile of him. Morse and Lussi covered ground in the centre of the diamond like a prairie fire.

The trio of gardeners left nothing to be desired. Mills, Olsen and Geehan each pulled off stunts that sent the crowd cheering. Ward, the new catcher, is a hard worker and fills the bill O.K.

Carney's Bench

Bill Carney has a dangerous bunch of players. They are nearly all big men and wield the wagon tongue with vigor. Many of their efforts, which seemed ticked for extra bases, were only gathered in by the stellar work of Eskimo infielders. The Huskies kicked on some of Umpire Longnecker's decisions, but the Umps. looked like the goods to the spectators. He is the master of the situation at all times and won't stand for any senseless disputing.

If Edmonton continues to play like yesterday, there is no doubt, Deacon has an aggregation of pennant winners, and every man, woman and child should turn out at the games, and boost, boost, boost.

Details of Play

Details of play are sometimes uninteresting, but just glance at these: First innings—Dugan, after striking vainly at Attorney-General Cross's pitch, rapped a sharp grounder to Lussi and died at first. Morse and Baxter disposed of Bill Carney. It was a beautiful stop of Pete's. Clynes filed to Dad Geehan. No runs.

Edmonton—Mills fanned out. Olsen knocked a homer over Geehan's head and beat out Chuck Connor's throw. Ole then proceeded to steal second with great success. Morse went out, Connor to Kelleckey. Only then our heavy hitter, Lussi stepped up to the plate amid frenzied yells of "Hit 'er out, Bill!" Bill didn't wait long, he fiddle-picked the first ball for a lovely double, and Ole hiked across the plate with the initial run of the game hand sure, and Ole certainly got a great hand from the crowd. No runs.

Edmonton—Dellar out, Connor to Kelleckey, and Mills died, via the same route. Olsen stepped up to the plate amid wild cheering and, contrary to custom, made a neat swing. Ovals generally occasion a strike out. Geehan and Kelleckey disposed of Con. Baxter. No runs.

Ninth Innings—Calgary never looked like breaking the tie in this spasm. Lussi and Baxter got Kell. Johnny Brennan made lovely running catch off Flanagan, while Connor's dropped a teaser into Olsen's grasping paws. No runs.

Edmonton—Lussi filed to Smith and Morse struck out. Brennan got a life on Connor's error. Jack stole second however, Geehan went out, Smith to Kell. No runs.

Tenth Innings—Dellar fanned Stanley and Brennan again distinguished himself by a dandy running catch off Geehan. Dugan coasted a pass from the stingy Hon. Dellar and stole second. Carney hit safely to left, Dugan taking third. Bill proceeded to steal second and the atmosphere got rather murky for the local fans. But good old Dad Geehan got under Clynes' shy-scraper, and the crowd stopped holding its breath.

Edmonton—No chance for us. Ward out, Smith to Kell. Dellar and Mills filed to Carney and Flanagan. Dellar's offering was a hard chance but Bill was equal to the occasion. No runs.

Eleventh—Smith hit a slow one to Morse and beat it out. Kelleckey bunted, pitcher to first. Flanagan, the pinch hitter, succumbed to the wily Dellar. Connor grounded, Morse to Baxter. No runs.

Edmonton—Olsen out, second to first. Baxter hit safely to second. Lussi filed to Flanagan and with Morse at bat, Baxter was nailed stealing. No runs.

Twelfth Innings—Stanley filed to Mills, who made beautiful catch. Geehan and Dugan walked the atmosphere. No runs.

Edmonton—Morse filed to Connor. Jack Brennan struck out, Dad Geehan got hit on the back and ambled to first. Ward followed with a daisy cutter to left, but Dellar filed to Carney who hugged the Goldsmith tightly. No runs.

Thirteenth—Carney and Clynes filed to Brennan and Olsen. Smith made three separate and distinct holes in the atmosphere. No runs.

Edmonton—Mills, first victim, Geehan to Kelleckey. Olsen struck out. Morse Baxter got a life on Kelleckey's error. Lussi out, second to first. No runs.

Fourteenth—Kelleckey was disposed of by Olsen, who made another of his most famous catches. Flanagan and Connor kicked to Brennan and Olsen.

Edmonton—Morse took the initial station of Kelleckey's slip-up. Brennan fanned to first. Peter pulled second, making his third steal of the game. Ward dashed our hopes to terra firma by fanning. No runs.

Fifteenth and last—Stanley, Geehan and Dugan were easy outs. The first two being out on grounders, while Dugan loitered on second garden. Ole was there. No runs.

Edmonton—Dellar marched to the plate with his trusty wily and slapped a two-bagger. The fans began to raise a shout like an explosion in a dynamite factory. Mills, in a six, by Dellar, was tagged at third. Mills then burnt up the path to second and went into Dugan like a Dreadnought. Result: Dug. dropped the ball and lay as if a leg was broken. A M.P. intervened on the field and got the injured Huns into the game again. Olsen struck out but Stanley missed the third strike. Ole took first, Mills perching on third. Then, for the first time in the ordeal Geehan weakened, and walked Baxter and Lussi, forcing in Mills with the winning run. Final score, 3-2 favor of Eskimos.

CAUGHT OUT

Some Base Hits Combed in Yesterday's Famous Victory Over Calgary Baseball Team.

The game tonight is at six o'clock. Nine put-outs for a centre fielder is going soon. That is what Olsen did. Stanley did not show up too well as a receiver, but merely had an off-day.

Attendance 1500. Game 15 innings. Must be some charm about that number 15.

When Ole watched Smith's walking from the clouds, Wally could do nothing but gasp.

Umpire Longnecker looks like a Silk O'Leighlin to us, but Bill Carney does not think so.

Flanagan, who replaced Tallant, did not seem any more successful with the wily than his predecessor.

Morse Baxter certainly cut off several well-ment-bunt. And Lussi backed up first in good style.

When Spinner arrives, there will be some competition for positions on the catching staff.

That man Clynes, the Huskies' left fielder, looks like a real ball-player.

Capt. Kidd was asking after Chandler. Is he back as if Chan. couldn't get around today.

Bill Lussi was playing second base today in the same manner he does any position he tries—that is, splendidly.

One Edmonton gentleman, he shall be nameless, but $30 on Calgary.

Hon. P. J. Dellar is mentioned around town as Mayor Lee's successor for 1911. We know 1500 votes he is sure of.

If the lady-fans keep on turning out in such numbers as yesterday, the club would make themselves strong by instituting a Ladies' Day.

And how about running Manager Deacon White and Ole Olsen for members of Parliament? Goodness, how that man Olsen can field!

Geehan's wild dives, emerging from the water with the ball, would take well in vaudeville. It is a sensational display.

The Edmonton bingles were distributed as follows: Olsen, Lussi, and Dellar, two each. Baxter and Ward, one each.

The Huskies gathered around the umpire on several occasions, for the purpose of polite conversation, but there was nothing doing.

Both Manager Carney and Deacon offered the Cross-Lee battery fabulous sums to sign up, but they have previous engagements.

Mills wasn't there with the stick, but he made the winning run, and also tear off a peachy catch. A good day's work.

The reporters certainly made Rome howl at different moments during the game. They rather got to Geehan towards the end, but we certainly must hand it to him. He is game, and a classy performer also.

Messrs. McKinley and Clark of the Ideal Pool room are real fans. They closed down their place of business and the whole staff turned out en masse to root for the home team.

Pete Morse pulled off some nice stops, and also was on the job with three stolen bases. Those are the things that help.

Kelleckey on first is a peacherino. He also had two hits out of the Calgary total of six. Wally Smith was also responsible for two while Carney and Dugan annexed the others.

Dugan got quite a bad stab when Mills went into him, feet first, a la Tyros Cobb. There "happened" to be twenty or thirty doctors in the stand, so Dug. was quickly fixed up.

Chuck Connors had a busy day at second and out of eleven chances, only made one slip-up. Kelleckey on

Sons of England Won

A large crowd turned out at the Second St. grounds last night to witness the game between North End, Hon. and the Sons of England. The S. O. E. got the long end of the score, winning by 2 to 1. The North End got the long end of the score, winning by 2 to 1. The North End got the long end of the score, winning by 2 to 1.

Both Manager Carney and Deacon offered the Cross-Lee battery fabulous sums to sign up, but they have previous engagements.

Mills wasn't there with the stick, but he made the winning run, and also tear off a peachy catch. A good day's work.

The reporters certainly made Rome howl at different moments during the game. They rather got to Geehan towards the end, but we certainly must hand it to him. He is game, and a classy performer also.

Messrs. McKinley and Clark of the Ideal Pool room are real fans. They closed down their place of business and the whole staff turned out en masse to root for the home team.

Pete Morse pulled off some nice stops, and also was on the job with three stolen bases. Those are the things that help.

Kelleckey on first is a peacherino. He also had two hits out of the Calgary total of six. Wally Smith was also responsible for two while Carney and Dugan annexed the others.

Dugan got quite a bad stab when Mills went into him, feet first, a la Tyros Cobb. There "happened" to be twenty or thirty doctors in the stand, so Dug. was quickly fixed up.

Chuck Connors had a busy day at second and out of eleven chances, only made one slip-up. Kelleckey on

HAT TAKES ONE FROM MINERS

Lethbridge had Game on Ice but the Champions Got Mr. Pich, the Curvless Pitcher.

Medicine Hat, May 16.—After winning on the game rightly in the second inning, by making six hits and a walk off Nelson, netting seven runs, Lethbridge had the mortification of seeing the Hat strikers pull down the lead by heavy batting and dashing base running, and make a runaway game of it. In the ninth Lethbridge had a chance to win or tie through the lurches lurching errors but Nelson tightened up and it was all over.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN SPORTS

There is no truth in the rumor that the Sports will not take place at the Fort on Victoria Day. The big meet will take place as scheduled, and promises to be the most successful in the history of the Fort Saskatchewan Athletic Association. Entries have been fairly pouring in to the secretary, and all the foremost athletes in Northern Alberta will be among the starters.

Police Stepped In

Winnipeg, May 16.—The bout between Toni Caponi and Fred McLaughlin was stopped in the seventh round at the request of the police and the decision given to Caponi by Referee Coleman. The local man striped half a hundred heavier and towered above the clever Italian, but was outmached all the way and was obliged to seek refuge in footwork and clinching and was fouled continually. He would have been knocked out but for the fight being stopped. The decision was very popular with the big crowd.

New Mark for Pole Vault

Berkley, Calif., May 17.—Scott, of Leland Stanford University, Saturday set American Inter-Collegiate mark of 12 feet 6 1/2 inches for the pole vault on the first annual Pacific Coast Inter-Collegiate field day event.

Johnston Playing Baseball

San Francisco, May 17.—Not to be outdone by Jim Jeffries, Jack Johnston has added baseball to his training. The sight of the giant negro going out to a vacant lot adjoining the Seal Lock gymnasium this morning carrying a huge bat, provided a novel attraction during the hour and a half that the champion batted 'em to his retinue of trainers the "standing room" was much in evidence.

"I never played baseball," said Jack as he left the field, "but I believe it is just the kind of exercise I need in my preliminary work, and I shall probably stick to it for a week or ten days."

Though Jack was given numerous invitations to don the gloves and get out in the field, he declined with thanks.

FIRST GAME IN S. S. LEAGUE

First Presbyterian Took Game From McDougall Methodist—Score 2 to 1—Dean, Duncan and Blayney Scored

The Sunday school baseball league got off to a good start last night when the opening game of the league was played on Taylor Park between teams representing McDougall Methodist and First Presbyterian Sunday schools. The game was a good exhibition of amateur ball and the boys deserve credit for the class of stuff handled so early in the season. The batteries for both teams were good and the fielding with but a few exceptions was excellent. The score was Presbyterians 2, Methodists 1.

The lineup was: Ross, p.; May, c.; Jeffery, 1b; Belcher, 2b; Gillespie, 3b; B. Hawa, s.s.; Duncan, r.f.; Buck, c.f.; Deane, l.f.

Methodists—Butchart, p.; Blayney, c.; Jones, 1b; Carter, 2b; Carruthers, 3b; Henry, s.s.; Lynn, r.f.; Dyson, c.f.; Poiry, r.f.

Umpire—Percy Wells.

The next league game will be played on Taylor Park on Wednesday when the Baptists meet All Saints in the junior section. On Thursday night on the same grounds, Westminster meets Grace Methodist in the senior division.

Jeff Boxes on Sunday

Ben Lomond, Cal., May 17.—Jeffries belted a crowd of camp visitors on Sunday by four good fast rounds with Bob Armstrong. He did five miles on the road in the morning under a hot sun.

MANAGER OF MERCHANTS' ON CLARKE'S ACCOUNTS

could be seen. "Well, sometimes, you know, a bank account is pretty sacred to a client," remarked Mr. Fraser. "Yes," growled Mr. Bennett, sarcastically. Mr. Fraser then said he would do whatever the Commissioners decided.

"I think I can say that Mr. Cushing is quite willing to have any of his accounts in any of the banks of the province scrutinized by counsel for the Commission," announced Mr. Bennett, who is acting for Mr. Cushing.

Will See Cross' Account.

"Is Mr. Cross a customer at your bank?" asked Mr. Walsh.

"Yes, yes, a house account, and another."

"Both deposit accounts?"

"Yes."

"Has he any other accounts not in his name but which are subject to his cheque?"

"None that I know of, except the firm account."

"Are you willing that Mr. Johnston and I should see Mr. Cross' accounts?"

Mr. Biggar, who is acting for Mr. Cross, after a whispered instruction from Mr. Cross, announced that Mr. Cross was willing to have his accounts looked into.

"Does Mr. Cornwall keep an account at your bank?"

"Yes."

"Has he more than one account?"

"No, except that he has a joint account with Mr. Cross relative to some Calgary real estate."

It was decided to secure Mr. Cornwall's permission to have these accounts of his scrutinized.

"Did Hon. W. T. Finlay have an account?"

"Not lately. It was transferred to Melville Hall."

This ended the direct examination, and Mr. Bennett then began the cross-examination.

The Cross-Examination.

"When did you first meet Clarke?"

Was Bennett's first shot.

Mr. Fraser did not remember the exact date.

"I have a telegram here addressed to Clarke, care of the manager of the Merchants Bank, Edmonton. Does that assist your memory?"

"Yes, that fixes the time."

"Then on June 26th, 1908, two strangers, Clarke and Bowen, came into your office and introduced themselves?"

"Did they tell you their business?"

"I gathered that they expected to build a railway toward the north."

"Did you know that they had any assurances from the government that their loans would be guaranteed?"

"No."

"You knew that Cornwall had a charter to build a railway to the north?"

"No, I knew he had a dream of doing it."

"Did you ever see Clarke and Bowen in Cornwall's company?"

"Oh, yes, I have seen them together."

"Did you ever have any conversation with Clarke as to his getting government assistance?"

"No."

"Do you have a talk with Clarke and Bowen as to the result of the investigation of the road by the company's engineers?"

"Not here. In November, 1908, I went east as far as Warrnambool with Clarke, Alway and Waddell, and Clarke told me of these surveys and his ambitions."

"It was on November 13th, 1908, that you cashed a draft for $500 for Clarke, and it was on that very day that Clarke went east and you went with him as far as Warrnambool?"

"Yes, I suppose so."

"And you didn't know the purpose of Clarke's trip?"

"No."

Coincidence in Dates.

Mr. Bennett probed at some length into the fact that Clarke had cashed three drafts for $1000, $500 and $500 respectively, all on the 26th of February, 1909.

Mr. Bennett asked if it wasn't rather an extraordinary transaction for a man, representing himself as the vice-president of a trust company, to draw three drafts on one day on that trust company for three different amounts.

Mr. Fraser admitted that it was.

Mr. Bennett wanted to know if any memo was taken of the kind of currency in which these drafts were paid.

"It would be made on the back of the draft," said Mr. Fraser. "And you don't know how it was drawn, drew the three drafts in one day?"

"No."

"And if I tell you that the 26th of February was the day on which the legislature rose last year, that does not help you any?"

"No."

"Now, are you sure that Clarke secured currency for these drafts, or were they made over to some third party?"

"I'm sure Clarke got the money currency."

"Was the draft Cornwall cashed money on the trust company?"

"Yes."

"Now, you have noticed that the only proceeds of these drafts that passed to Clarke's account was the $2,000 on the 31st of February. Were all the other drafts paid to him in currency?"

"Yes, I'm sure they were."

Not Interested Himself

Mr. Fraser had no recollection of who returned the first cheque to him but he stated that he got it back that evening.

In answering a question of Mr. Justice Beck, witness thought the cheques were made to the order of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway. The $2,000 cheque was made out at the same time as the smaller ones, but were not returned at the same time.

"Did you see Mr. Biggar, Mr. Cross or any member of that firm in connection with the transactions," asked Mr. Bennett.

The witness replied in the negative.

"Are you interested in any of these transactions with Mr. Cross? I am instructed that you are."

"No."

"Did you see Mr. Biggar, or Mr. Cross, or any member of that firm in connection with the $50,000 transaction?" asked Mr. Bennett.

The witness answered in the negative.

"Did you advance money to Mr. Hopkins for the purpose of investing in school lands, last year?"

"Did you advance money to Mr. Hopkins for the purpose of investing in school lands?"

"I did not know his purpose. Mr. Hopkins has been a borrowing client of our bank for some time."

Mr. Bennett inquired of the witness if Messrs. Minty and Clarke contributed for political purposes and Mr. Fraser replied that he did not know.

At this juncture the commission adjourned for lunch.

Raymond Band Pleaded

The Raymond Rustler publishes the following letter:

May 12, 1910.—Editor Raymond Rustler: Dear Sir—Allow me space in your paper to thank the people of Raymond for the loyal support given to the band while preparing for the Provincial Musical Festival at Edmonton. I wish also to thank the committee in charge of the festival at Edmonton; they met us at station with automobiles and took 97 per cent. of the band members to the capital, a distance of two miles. On arrival we were directed where hotel accommodation could be obtained.

After locating ourselves in several hotels we repaired to the Thistle Kirk to hold our final rehearsal. All through our sojourn at the capital, we were made welcome to all the festival entertainments free. The committee was courteous to us in every respect, for which we return our thanks. Hoping to meet them again, I am, respectfully yours,

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

"This is my land, sure enough. Land, man, I wish you'd get out of this and go home. You see, they're an ugly lot and don't use top tools."

"Remember the points back! That's my watchword," laughed Claiborne.

They rode with their eyes straight ahead, peering through the breaking, floating mist. It was now so clear and light that they could see the wood at either hand, though fifty yards ahead in every direction the fog still lay like a barricade.

"I should value a change of rainment," observed Armitage. "There was an advantage in armor—your horse might get rusty on a damp excursion, but your shirt wouldn't stick to your hide."

"Who cares? These devils are pretty quiet, and the little cernent is about due to bump into them again."

They had come to a gradual turn in the road at a point where a steep wood incline swept up on the left. On the right lay the old hunting preserve and Armitage's hangout. As they drew into the curve, they heard a revolver crack twice, as before, followed by answering shots and cries and the sound of hoofs.

"Oho! Oscar has struck them again. Steady now! Watch your horse!" and Armitage raised his arm high above his head, then just before his horse reached Claiborne and fired twice as a warning to Oscar.

The distance between the contending parties was shorter now than at the first meeting, and Armitage and Claiborne bent forward in their saddles, talking softly to their horses, that had danced wildly at Armitage's shouts.

"Lead, if we can crowd them in here now and back to the Port!"

"There!"

Exclamations died on their lips at the instant. Ahead of them lay the fog rising and breaking in soft folds, and behind it men yelled and several shots snapped spitefully on the horse's ears.

Just a curious pattern disclosed itself at the edge of the vapor as though it were a curtain through which actors in a human drama were passing. Zmai and Chauvenet flashed into view suddenly, and close behind them Oscar, yelling like mad. He drove his horse forward, and the two men, three himself flat as Zmai fired at him and turned and waved his hand and laughed at him, then just before his horse reached Claiborne and Armitage he checked his speed abruptly, flung it about and then charged back, still yelling, upon the amazed foe.

"It's crazy; he's gone clean out of his head!" muttered Claiborne, restraining his horse with difficulty. "What do you make of it?"

"It's having fun with them. It's just rattling them to warm himself up, the little beggar. I didn't know it was in him."

Back went Oscar toward the two horses he had passed less than a minute before, still yelling, and this time he discharged his revolver with seeming unconcern for the value of his horse and the agony dashed at between them and back through the gray curtain Armitage gave the word, and he and Claiborne swept on at a gallop.

Durand was out of sight, and Chauvenet turned and looked behind him unceasingly, then he spoke sharply to Zmai. Oscar's wild ride back and forth had demoralized the horses, which were snorting and plunging wildly. As Armitage and Claiborne advanced Chauvenet spoke again to Zmai and "On his own revolver."

"Oh, for a saber now!" growled Claiborne.

But it was not a moment for speculation or regret. Both sides were still silent as Claiborne, leading slightly, swept Armitage's passing closely, galloped toward the two men who faced them at the gray wall of mist. They bore to the left with a view of crowding the two horses into the wood and into the preserve, and as they neared them they heard cries through the mist, and rapid hoof beats, and Durand's horse leaped the ditch at the instant just before it reached Chauvenet and Zmai, and ran away through the rough undergrowth into the wood.

Oscar came behind and silent now, grimly laid on his business.

The revolvers of Zmai and Chauvenet cracked together, and then they turned their horses into the wood, and away they all went, leaving the road clear.

"My horse got it that time!" shouted Claiborne.

"So did I," replied Armitage. "But never you, old man, we've got 'em now!"

Claiborne glanced at Armitage and saw his right hand, still holding his revolver, go to his shoulder.

"Much?"

"It struck a hard place, but I am still in."

The blood streamed from the neck of Claiborne's horse, which threw up its head and snorted in pain, but kept bravely on at the trot in which Armitage had set the pace.

"Poor devil! We'll have a reckoning pretty soon," cried Armitage cheerily. "No kingdom is worth a good horse."

Claiborne jumped just as the wounded animal rolled over dead.

CLAIBORNE eluded upon a rock to get his bearings, and as he galloped through the wood a bullet sang close to his head, and he saw a man slipping away through the undergrowth.

as they expelled their exploded can ridges and refilled their magazines.

"They're not so bad—had luck to them?" he muttered. "I'll be ripe for the little brown man after I get through with this," and Claiborne laughed a little and watched Armitage's slow advance out into the open.

The fire behind the barricade had not yet seen the man they had crossed the sea to kill, as the line of his approach closely paralleled the low, irregular wall with its fringe of cedars, but they knew from Claiborne's signal that he was there. The men had picked their horses back of the little fort, and Claiborne commanded their good generalship and wondered what sort of beings they were to risk so much upon so wild an adventure.

Armitage rode out farther into the opening, and Claiborne, with his eyes on the barricade, saw a man lean forward through the cedars in an effort to take aim at the horseman. Claiborne drew up his own rifle and blazed away. A stone sprang into the air above the target's elbow, and the man dropped back out of sight without firing.

"I've never been the same since that fever," growled Claiborne and snapped out the shell spitefully and watched Armitage's advance.

Being directly in front of the barricade he was in a position to cover Armitage's advance, and Oscar meanwhile had taken his cue from Armitage and ridden slowly into the field from the left. The men behind the cedars drew in their breath and looked at both men without exposing themselves, but their shots flew wild, and the two horsemen rode up to Claiborne, who had emptied his rifle into the cedars and was reloading.

"They are all together again, are they?" growled Armitage, passing a few yards from Claiborne's rear. His eyes upon the barricade.

"The gentleman with the curly hair I drove him in. He is a poor shot."

Oscar tightened his belt and waited for orders, while Armitage and Claiborne conferred in quick, private sentences.

"Shall we risk a push or shove them out? I'd like to try hanger on them."

"They'll all sneak off over the bridge tonight if we pen them up. If they all at once they'll go down, and we'll lose our quarry. But you want to capture them—alive?"

"I certainly do!" Armitage replied and turned to laugh at Oscar, who had fired at the barricade from the back of his horse, which was rearing the indignity by trying to throw his rider.

"The dawn was breaking merrily, and out of a gray, low hanging mist a light rain fell in the soft, monotonous fashion of mountain rain. Much of the time it was necessary to maintain single file, and Armitage rode alone. For the great thicket of their advance guard he did not lessen their pace, which had now dropped to a steady trot."

Suddenly, as they swept on beyond Lamar, they heard the beat of hoofs and halted.

"Bully for us! We've cut in ahead of them! Can you count them, Claiborne?"

"There are three horses all right enough, and they're forcing the beasts. What's your word?"

"Drive them back! Ready—here we go!" roared Armitage as a voice intended to be heard.

"I'm glad at the top of their voices as they charged, plunging into the advancing trot after a forty yard gallop."

"Not later than Friday—lack you go!" shouted Armitage and laughed aloud at the enemy's rout. One of the horses seemed from his rider's yell to be Chauvenet's—turned and bolted, and the others followed back the way they had come.

Soon they dropped their pace to a trot, and the trot continued to fly before them.

"They're rattled," said Claiborne, "and the fog isn't helping them any."

whereabouts.

"It's all right; they haven't passed yet. I met a railroad track walker down there, and he said he had seen no one between here and Lamar. Now they're handicapped by the big country horse they had to take for that Servian devil, and we can push them as hard as we like. We must get them beyond Lamar before we crowd them, and don't forget that we want to drive them into my land for the round up. I'm afraid we're going to have a wet morning."

They rode abreast beside the railroad through the narrow gap. A long freight train cutled and rattled by, and a little later they passed a coal shaft, where a begrimed night shift loaded cars under flaring torches.

"Their message to Whitekirk is still on this side of the Atlantic," said Armitage, "but Whitekirk is in a strong mood this time. If he could see the officers at Vienna are what they ought to be. I've done my best to get him there. The message would only help the case against him if they sent it."

Claiborne growled mockingly. "I suppose I'll know what it's all about when I read it in the morning papers. I like the game well enough, but it might be more amusing to know what I'm fighting for."

"You couldn't without reading the articles of war, and you've got to take the consequences. You've done what you can for them, and you've found me, and you're traveling with me over the Virginia mountains to report my capture to Baron von Marlow. On the way you're going to assist in a number of affairs that will be equally to your credit, and then if all goes well with me I'm going to give myself the pleasure of crowning Mr. Chauvenet to tell you exactly who I am. The incident appeals to my sense of humor. I assure you I'm not of course. I was not a person of very great distinction Chauvenet and his friend Durand would have crossed the ocean and brought with them a professional assassin, skilled in the use of smothering and killing, to do away with me. You are in luck to be alive. We do not do grossly near the same size and build and in the dark, on horseback."

"That was funny. I know that if I say for it they'll plug me for sure and that if I waited until they saw their mistake they would be afraid to kill me. Ugh! I still taste the red soil of the Old Dominion."

"Come, captain, let me give the horses a chance to prove their blood. These roads will be pasted in ten hours."

The dawn was breaking merrily, and out of a gray, low hanging mist a light rain fell in the soft, monotonous fashion of mountain rain. Much of the time it was necessary to maintain single file, and Armitage rode alone. For the great thicket of their advance guard he did not lessen their pace, which had now dropped to a steady trot."

Soon they dropped their pace to a trot, and the trot continued to fly before them.

"They're rattled," said Claiborne, "and the fog isn't helping them any."

"We're getting close to my place," said Armitage, and as he spoke two shots fired in rapid succession cracked away behind the fog, and they jerked up their horses.

"It's Oscar! It's a good way ahead if I judge the shots right."

DEATH LURKS IN THE CUP

Not the Wine Cup, but the Common Drinking Cup.

IT IS A DISSEMINATOR OF DISEASE

Kansas has Prohibited the use of Public Drinking Cups in Trains in That State.

Chicago, May 17.—The perils of the public drinking cup, which are being recognized more clearly in the United States month by month, were emphasized yesterday in the announcement of the death of an Illinois woman from an illness contracted from this common carrier of disease.

An agitation for the suppression of the cup used promiscuously in drinking in public places, such as railway coaches, was started in Cincinnati in the meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. And the Chicago board of education at the same time started out to remedy this menace to the school pupils here.

Watske Woman is Victim

The woman whose shocking death came yesterday to the grade was Mrs. Olive Peters of Watske, Ill. She died yesterday from a malignant blood disease, contracted while she was traveling on a train in Omaha, Neb., last fall.

On her arrival in Omaha, infection developed in her month and spread to her throat and lungs. Inquiry by the physicians attending developed that she had used the common drinking cup on the train and could have received the infection from no other source.

She was taken back and lingered several months, dying at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Garfield, on a farm southeast of town. The last days of her illness were attended with great suffering.

The start of the agitation in the powerful Federation of Women's Clubs arose from an address delivered in the session in Cincinnati by Prof. Allen Davidson of Lafayette College, Pennsylvania. His topic was "The Relation of the Public Drinking Cup to Health." Mr. Davidson called the public drinking cup a "public menace" and "a disseminator of disease."

The address pointed out the necessity of nation-wide activity against this evil of the drinking cup, cited cases of death from its public use, and painted in graphic manner the horrors that arise from it. The speech came just after the presentation, Mrs. Philip N. Moore, had made her report recommending that an endorsement fund be established and that a department of public health be established with the view of broadening the scope of club work.

School Board is Aroused

At a meeting of the Chicago school management committee the peril of the common drinking cup was discussed and a decision was reached which, it is hoped, will do away with the dangers involved in its use in and about the city schools.

The "lubbubbing" drinking cups by which the danger of contagion and disease germs is said to be averted.

Such sanitary cups will be installed in all the public schools.

At present fifteen schools out of 270 have sanitary drinking fountains equipped with "lubbubbing" cups.

It was a case at Lawrence, Kas., similar to that in Watske, that induced the Kansas state authorities last year ago, to prohibit drinking cups on trains. Now paper cups are sold for individual use, at a nominal price, or the passengers on Kansas trains carry their own cups, or they do not drink.

Chinese Boycott Raised

Victoria, B.C., May 17.—The boycott by Chinese of all classes against Japanese ships, which began two years ago, and has resulted in enormous losses to the Japanese steamship lines, has been formally declared off. The Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Inaba Maru, which will leave Yokohama tomorrow for Puget Sound, will carry forty-six Chinese passengers and much Chinese freight.

Dog Gives Life for Boy

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 16.—To save the life of little John Mighen today a shepherd dog, the boy's constant companion, sacrificed his life. The child was playing in the street and tried to cross in front of a motorcycle. The dog dashed after the boy and pushed him out of the way with such force that he was sent sprawling. Before the dog could jump aside the motorcycle struck it, causing its death. The cyclist was thrown, but jumped and got away.

Art Expert's Advice to Members of Women's Clubs.

THEIR DUTY TO BE PRESENTABLE

Color of Clothes Should Blend With Color of Their Eyes and Skin.

Cincinnati, O., May 17.—Henry Turner Bailey, for sixteen years supervisor of arts in the public schools of Boston, was one of the principal speakers at the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mr. Bailey told his hearers how they could harmonize their clothing to themselves to make themselves better appearing, which, he said, was one of their chief duties. His address follows:

"Why don't the women in their clubs study how to dress?" he began. The first duty of a woman is to herself, presentable and there is no leaf in the forest that hasn't more style than women. For style means more than following the styles. It means perfect consistency. It means rhythm and measure, and interrelationship. The leaves have it, and the women do not."

"For instance, we are not a race of Caucasians. We are a cross between yellow and green. Now, it is the business of every woman to get the exact shade of her skin and work out a costume consistent with this coloring. If she wishes to be conservative she should work out colors of the same general tone. But if she wishes to be dashing she should seek her contrasting colors, and this is really the best color scheme there is."

"She usually will find the contrasting shade to be the color of her eyes, which, as is perfectly proper, makes the eyes the most prominent feature of the face. Any scheme, of course, which does not make the face the most prominent and attractive feature is a failure."

Two thousand women assembled in Music hall applauded these suggestions and later asked for the written address, so that it might be placed in the official records. Many clubs will take under advisement Mr. Bailey's suggestions for the further work for women, which follows:

"Work towards getting as a national standard. I recommend a national standard. It is healthy, it is beautiful, it takes the shape of a five pointed star. It is truly American; for it can take care of itself. Discard your crests. They are affected and not American. But get yourselves some distinctive sign or symbol to work into your dress pattern, on your stationery, and into your household linens."

Do's Long Fast

Hempstead, L. I., May 17.—Highland Lad, a valuable Scotch terrier owned by Mrs. V. H. Duncan, holds the record for fasting in this vicinity. It has been found after being in a dry well for thirty days without food or water.

The dog was a prize winner at bench shows in Madison Square Garden. He disappeared nearly two weeks ago. Mrs. Duncan was grieved over the loss of her pet, which was valued at $1,000, and she offered a reward of $50 for his return.

Yesterday afternoon a little girl was passing the well when she heard a dog whine. She called an employee of the Duncans, who found that the sound came from the bottom of the well. A ladder was lowered and Highland Lad was brought to the surface two weeks to find that strong enough to recognize those about him. Liquid food was given him and within a few hours he was all right.

It is supposed that the dog fell into the well while chasing a rabbit.

Best Blow on Market.

Calgary, Alta., April 26, 1910
Dr. J. W. Rowntree,
President Vanslyke Plow Co.,
Edmonton, Alta.

Dear Sir—Referring to demonstration which was given by you of your breaking plow, a few days since, noted the following conditions which recommended it to me very strongly.

The undercarriage or on the land side, which prepared the next furrow for turning, would leave no possibility of any portion of the furrow being turned without being cut loose from the adjacent soil. There seems to be very little friction on the share and mold board, it having so small an angle with the landside, and the long sweep of the arm or rods back of the mold board seem to turn the soil with perfect ease and little friction, although turning the twenty inches in width, and a depth of not less than four inches, the draft was so light that it would appear good team could handle it without very great effort. The coulter set at an angle and attached to the point of the share seemed to be a very good device, as it not only stiffened the coulter and kept it in exact position, but also cut the soil at an angle, so that it could less easily stand on edge. This assisted turning very much.

Owing to the soil which we have in the Irrigation Block, I believe you will find it to your advantage instead of cutting a furrow twenty inches in width to cut two furrows twenty inches in width instead. This will have a tendency to join the clods so as to leave a flat surface, and where the soil varies as to its toughness, as it does here, it will turn the soil unbroken and leave a surface best suited for cultivating, and would require less turning than it would if turned in wider furrows and not laid as regular.

If a few details are worked out, I consider you have a plow that will eclipse anything that is now on the market and will work revolution in breaking soil on the western prairie. With these few suggestions, permit me to say, that any assistance I can give you in working out this point, I will gladly do at any time, and when a plow turning 12-inch furrows such as can be evolved from the plow shown in the present demonstration has been made, and is on the market, I want you to put me down for one for use on my own farm. I understand that this company are going to make such plows. For bush and mixed prairie land the 18-inch furrow or wider works better. I remain, yours very truly,
F. W. CRANDALL,
Supt. Development of the Can. Pacific Irrigation and Colonization Dept.

The brick work of Alberta College is being rapidly done. The brick work in the interior is almost built up as high as the cement walls. When this is done work may be commenced on the walls themselves.

Workmen under the charge of Mr. Thos. Richards are working hard at Mr. Rutherford's residence near the University grounds. The cement work will be entirely completed in a few days now.

The work of grading Sixth street from the car barns to the river bank has been completed. This will be one of the most important streets of the city leading along from Whyte avenue north until it connects with Saskatchewan avenue, which will be the chief approach to the University grounds.

Drick laying will recommence on the University Dormitory today. The cement work is completed along the greater part of the building and the brick laying will be pushed forward rapidly. A large amount of Kootenay marble for dressing and window sills is already on the ground. About 15 acres of the campus has been cleared and broken and a wonderful difference is observed at the grounds. A crop of some kind will be sown on this land for this season in order to break up the soil suitable for sowing, grass seed next year.

The football game between the locals and the St. Georges of Edmonton last night was a decided frost. Only eight of the locals turned up at first and all through the game they played one man short. Good work was done for them by Young and Embell especially. The St. Georges have a good fast team but are very team work. They are good players individually. The game finished with the large score of 5 to 0 against the locals.

MILK INSPECTOR IS RECOMMENDED

Board of Health Passes Resolution to That Effect and Sends it to City Council.

A resolution urging the appointment of a milk inspector for the city's supply was passed unanimously by the Board of Health at a meeting in the city council chamber last night and will be forwarded to the city council. Besides passing the resolution a committee was appointed to inquire into details and to draw up a set of recommendations for the guidance of the inspector, if one is to be appointed. The committee is composed of Mayor Lee, Dr. Park and Mr. Harlan.

Dr. Revell, provincial bacteriologist, gave a few hints to the board in the matter, outlining the great importance of a pure milk supply and the grave danger attending the present state of affairs. He suggested the adoption of the score card system, as it is in use in the east. This, he said, would not only have the effect of ensuring pure milk, but would also encourage competition among the dairymen.

The subject of pasteurization was also dealt upon and Dr. Revell pointed out the beneficial effect this process has in the way of destroying germs. A recommendation of the medical association, that action be taken to prevent the sale of milk advertised as pasteurized when it had never received the proper treatment, was considered.

Mr. Wilson, during the course of the discussion on tuberculous cows, stated that it would only be fair to the owners of such animals that were destroyed through being effected, to compensate them for their loss. However, Dr. Whitelaw showed that it was to any man's advantage to have such animals eliminated from the rest of the herd.

Dr. Revell, during the evening reiterated his statement that the recent samples sent him by the medical association were all contaminated.
